WEDNESDAY, September 18, 1751.

From my Lodging in Spring-Gardens.

AS to the Methods of Repriſal which my Friend propoſes, how raſh ſoever they may appear to ſome, I ſhall ſhew are not unprecedented, by reprinting an Extract from a Speech ſaid to be made ſeveral Years ago by a very diſtinguiſhed Perſon, then a great Patriot, and now a great Man. The Example of CROMWELL, tho' an Uſurper, has been often quoted with Applauſe under the legal Reign of his preſent moſt gracious Majeſty.——

Extract of a Speech made by WILLIAM PULTENEY, Eſq; in the Houſe of Commons, two Years before the Commencement of the laſt War with Spain.

WE have been negotiating and treating with Spain for theſe twenty Years, about Nothing that I know of, unleſs it was about Reparation and Security for our Merchants; and yet, during the whole Time, they have been plundering and abuſing our Merchants, almoſt without Intermiſſion. If a Nation's being ſubject to daily Inſults and Injuries is not a Circumſtance, that ought to make it peremptory in its Demands, I am ſure no Circumſtance can. This has been our Caſe for many Years, and will be our Caſe 'til Spain be made to acknowlege, in the moſt expreſs and particular Terms, every one of thoſe Rights they pretend to diſpute. Ought not this to make us peremptory in our Demands? Ought not it to have made us peremptory long ago? If we had peremptorily inſiſted upon full Satisfaction and Reparation for the firſt Injuſtice that was offered us, I may venture to affirm, we ſhould never have been expoſed to a ſecond; nay, if we conſider that our Inſults and Injuries were inflicted without any Ceremony, we ought to have as little Ceremony in revenging them; and to have taken Satisfaction, without being at any great Pains to demand it. But, I hope, that is not even yet too late.

This was what OLIVER CROMWELL did in a like Caſe, that happened during his Government, and in a Caſe, where a more powerful Nation was concerned than ever Spain could pretend to be. In the Hiſtories of his Time we are told, that an Engliſh Merchant Ship was taken in the Chops of the Channel, carried into St. Malots, and there confiſcated upon ſome groundleſs Pretence. As ſoon as the Maſter of the Ship, who was an honeſt Quaker, got home, he preſented a Petition to the Protector in Council, ſetting forth his Caſe, and praying for Redreſs. Upon hearing the Petition the Protector told his Council, He would take that Affair upon himſelf, and ordered the Man to attend him next Morning. He examined him ſtrictly as to all the Circumſtances of his Caſe, and finding by his Anſwers that he was a plain honeſt Man, and that he had been concerned in no unlawful Trade, he aſked him if he could go to Paris with a Letter. The Man anſwered, he could. Well then, ſays the Protector, prepare for your Journey, and come to me To-morrow Morning. Next Morning he gave him a Letter to Cardinal MAZARINE, and told him he muſt ſtay but three Days for an Anſwer. The Anſwer I mean, ſays he, is the full Value of what you might have made of your Ship and Cargo; and tell the Cardinal if it is not paid you in three Days, you have expreſs Orders from me to return home. The honeſt blunt Quaker, we may ſuppoſe, followed his Inſtructions to a Tittle; but the Cardinal, according to the Manner of Miniſters when they are any way preſſed, began to ſhuffle: Therefore the Quaker returned as he was bid. As ſoon as the Protector ſaw him, he aſked, "Well Friend, have you got your Money?" And upon the Man's anſwering, He had not, the Protector told him, "Then leave your Direction with my Secretary, and you "ſhall ſoon hear from me." Upon this Occaſion, that great Man did not ſtay to negotiate, or to explain, by long tedious Memorials, the Reaſonableneſs of his Demand. No, tho' there was a French Miniſter reſiding here, he did not ſo much as acquaint him with the Story, but immediately ſent a Man of War or two to the Channel, with Orders to ſeize every French Ship they could meet with. Accordingly they returned in a few Days with two or three French Prizes, which the Protector ordered to be immediately ſold, and out of the Produce he paid the Quaker what he demanded for his Ship and Cargo. Then he ſent for the French Miniſter, gave him an Account of what had happened, and told him there was a Balance, which if he pleaſed ſhould be paid to him, to the End that he might deliver it to thoſe of his Countrymen, who were the Owners of the French Ships that had been ſo taken and ſold.

This was OLIVER CROMWELL's Manner of negotiating; this was the Method he took for Reparation. And what was the Conſequence? It produced no War between the two Nations. No, it made the French Government terribly afraid of giving him the leaſt Offence; and while he lived, they took a ſpecial Care that no Injury ſhould be done to any Subjects of Great-Britain. This ſhews that OLIVER CROMWELL had a Genius and Capacity for Government; and however unjuſtly he acquired his Power, it is certain that this Nation was as much reſpected abroad, and flouriſhed as much at home under his Government, as it ever did under any Government.——

I wiſh thoſe who have now the Direction of our Negotiations abroad, would aſſume if poſſible, a little of the Spirit and Courage of OLIVER CROMWELL. He had as powerful a Party to ſtruggle with at home, as ever any Miniſter had; but he never allowed the Danger he was in from that Party, to deter him from vindicating, upon all Occaſions, the Honour and Intereſt of his Country abroad. He had too much good Senſe to manage in ſuch a puſillanimous Manner; for he knew that ſuch Management would have made them more daring, as well as more numerous.

If our preſent Negotiators, or thoſe who have the Direction of our Negotiations, take Example by him, I am ſure they will not accept of any general Acknowlegements or Promiſes.

BOSTON, Auguſt 19.

SATURDAY laſt a Number of Gentlemen commiſſioned by his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor to treat with the Eaſtern Indians, embarked on board Capt. Saunders, and ſailed with a fair Wind for George's, where the Congreſs is to be held.

As the Public have lately been entertained with the Account of an Iſland lately diſcovered, which Capt. Rodney, Governor of Newfoundland, is gone to look for, we cannot but think the following Extract from Capt. Otton's, Journal, may be an agreeable Amuſement to many of our Readers. It was given by the Capt. to a Maſter of a Veſſel juſt arrived here from London, of whom we have obtained it.

'March 4, 1748|9. At 2 in the Afternoon, made Land, which bore N. E. 7 Leagues Diſtance by Eſtimation; at 5 tacked, being about three Leagues from ſaid Iſland, Wind S. S. E. Lat.

Lat. per Observation 49, Long. 24 30 from the Lizard. This Island stretches N. W. and S. E. about 5 Leagues long, and about one Mile wide; On the S. Side five Vallies, and a great Number of Birds.——March 5. said Island bore N. three Leagues; N. W. a Reef of Rocks, three Miles. This Day a Ship's Mast came along Side. On the South Point of said Island is a small marshy Island.——A Copy of my Journal on board the Snow St. Paul, of London, bound from South Carolina to London.'

William Otton, Commander.

Captain Otton thought he saw a Tent on the Island, and would have gone ashore, but had unfortunately stove his Boat some Time before.

August 26. By a Vessel from Chinecto, we are informed, That the Indians are all drawn off from the French Camp near that Place, some of whom are gone to Canada, and the rest to Bay Vert, to receive the French King's Presents, lately arrived there, where they are making some Kind of Settlement.——That Major Luttrel, Commander of the British Troops, had lately sent several Parties, and cut down all the Dykes on the French Side, from whence the Indians used to annoy our Shipping; so that there is not now the least Danger in going up the River.——That the French Troops desert daily to our Garrison, thirteen of whom came over in two Days.

We likewise hear, that they daily expected a Number of Families at Chinecto from Hallifax, to settle there, and they are constantly at work on the Fort, which in a short Time will be so strong, as to defy all the Force that can come against it.——That the Place is very healthy, and the People in high Spirits, and they hope soon to see a flourishing Settlement; especially as they have the greatest Reason to believe the Indians are desirous of a Peace.

By a Vessel from Hallifax, we have Advice of the Arrival of his Majesty's Ship Centaur, Capt. Cosby, at that Place, from England: She is bound from thence to her Station at New York.

NEW-YORK, August 26.

By a Sloop which passed by from Antigua last Week, bound to the East End of Long-Island, we hear there has been a small Hurricane, or rather a violent Gale of Wind, at the Island of St. Kitts, on the 24th of last Month; wherein several Vessels in the Harbour were drove on shore, and some lost; but the Particulars we could not learn.——As the Situation of the Wind then was, it is apprehended some of the other Leeward Islands have suffered.

Last Night arrived here Capt. William Seamour from Coracoa, who informs us, that the six Vessels, fitted out from that Island some Time ago to protect their Traders on the Spanish Coast, were returned with flying Colours, having met with a Zebeque, Brigantine, and four Sloops, off of Rio de la Hatch, which they immediately engaged with for some Time, when they took all the four Sloops, two of which, after setting the Men ashore, they sunk, and the other two, one being found to belong to the Dutch, and the other to the English, and which had been taken, and fitted out as Privateers by the Spaniards, tho' never condemn'd, they generously restored to their right Owners again. The Brigantine and Zebeque, being much shattered, got off by the Help of their Oars. Two of the Dutch Vessels are arrived at Coracoa, and the other four were refitting at Aruba.

Sept. 2. Capt. Walker, who arrived here last Wednesday, in five Weeks from the Bay of Honduras, informs us, that on the 10th of July last, 15 Spanish Craft, with 200 Men, from Campeachy and Guatamala, came into Backelo or New-River in the Bay, and there took the following English Vessels; viz. Capt. Battagen of Jamaica, Capt. Serjeant of Rhode-Island, Capt. Groves of Boston, and Capt. Broadhurst of New-York, all Sloops; also one Schooner, another Sloop, and 25 Flats, making in all 164 Men Prisoners. As soon as this News reached Old-River, which the Spaniards did not think proper to visit, the English there sent a Flag of Truce, and settled a Cartel with them; after much treating they got 19 of the Men released, amongst which were the Captains Broadhurst and Saltus of New York, and Capt. Bailey of Bermuda, the rest, with all the Vessels and Booty, were carried off by them.

Extract of a Letter from St. Thomas, by a Vessel arrived here Yesterday.

"The Spaniards are beginning their old Tricks of taking our Vessels; they have taken a Snow bound from Coracoa to New-York, and carried her into Porto Rico, where, without Doubt, she will be condemn'd, for it was never known that any have escaped their Claws. Capt. Falkingham of the Shark Man of War, was at Porto Rico when she was brought in, who took all the Measures he could to assist the Captain in getting his Vessel again, but all to no Purpose.——They pretend that Stock Fish Wood makes him Bon Prize, as they call it." (It is supposed this Vessel is Capt. Carpenter, who, 'tis said, has a large Quantity of Money on board belonging to the Merchants of this City, and has been for some Time expected.)

ANNAPOLIS.

On Thursday last, came on the Trial of Thomas Bevan, for attempting to rob the House of Mr. Cole, on the 2d of July last; at first he pleaded, Not Guilty, but when his Comrade come to be Sworn, he objected to him, as being unqualified by the Laws of England, to give Evidence; but when he was told, that there was an Act of Assembly of this Province, which made one Convict's Oath good against another, he ask'd Pardon of the Court for giving them so much Trouble, and pleaded Guilty.
